Portfolio Monitor

Keeping Investors Informed and Wall Street Accountable

Johnson Fistel recognizes that there are inherent risks when investing in the stock market. But the risks that an investor assumes do not, and should not, include the risk that the company or its officers and directors will make false and misleading statements to artificially inflate the company's stock price or sell their own stock based on insider information. Often times, corporate fraud goes undiscovered because the truth is buried in a footnote. If you don't know where to look, you might not know your investments are in trouble until it's too late.
